

LODGE HEAT RANGE CHART

←HOT running PLUGS
for cold engines

→COLD running PLUGS
for hot engines

NOTE.—Cool, low compression engines require a hot running plug—if plug fouling occurs replace the plug with one of a lower heat factor, for example: C14 by B14. Hot, high compression engines require a cold running plug—if overheating occurs replace the plug by one with a higher heat factor, for example: C14 by H14 or HN.
